

Deidre Fischer

Professional Learning Consultant

Deidre's range of experience includes Head of School and Principal roles as well as teaching and other administrative posts across seven countries in the past 30+ years - and she still introduces herself as a teacher. Since leaving international school headships, Deidre has worked as a consultant and she has further expanded the number of countries and schools she has worked with; including Madagascar and Saudi Arabia while continuing her experience in SE Asia and more recently, Australia.

Deidre's passion is improving student learning by working with school leaders, school boards as well as teaching and non-teaching staff, and bringing all their work back to the question of 'what is best for student learning?' and 'how can you add value to your work in supporting student learning?'. Her special interest lies in working with educators and school leaders in helping them find connections between their practice, research and provoking their thinking about how they can make changes to positively impact student learning in their context.
