

Sue Bryen

Professional Learning Consultant

Sue Bryen has extensive experience supporting schools to implement Visible Learning with Corwin Australia, which involved working with hundreds of schools throughout Australia to use Visible Learning practices to improve student outcomes. Prior to becoming involved in professional learning, Sue held numerous positions in schools for 20+ years including teacher, Instructional Leader and Principal and has a Master of Education in Educational Leadership. Passionate about continual learning and collaboration, Sue has teamed with world renown researchers to present internationally on Student Voice, Collective Efficacy and Visible Learning. Sue is a Fellow of Leading Educators Across the Planet (LEAP), an organisation that involves Principals partnering with international colleagues to observe and learn together through peer shadowing. Sue is a passionate educator, driven by the aspirations of excellence and equity for all learners and recognises the complexity and rewards of supporting school teams to understand their contextual needs and use evidence to inform their decisions.
